Groups Price Sheet

March 16 – April 29, 2007

SET IN TODAY'S FRACTURED, FAST-PACED and overly wired world where multi-tasking has been taken to the level of an art form, Distracted navigates the disconcerting and at times hilariously surreal path a mother takes to find a remedy for her eight-year-old boy's "anxious and distracted" behavior. Through a maze of teachers, pediatricians, psychologists, neuropsychologists and nutritionists, the mother searches for answers. Is her son's diagnosis of ADD correct? Or is he simply reacting to the over-stimulation of TV screens, computers, cell phones, voice mail and video games? Is he suffering from poor nutrition and environmental toxins or is he a boy with a mind of his own? Is he dysfunctional or just different? Lisa Loomer's most recent play, Living Out, had its world premiere at the Taper in 2003 and was subsequently produced at Second Stage in New York and continues to play across America. She is perhaps best known for The Waiting Room, which had its world premiere at the Taper in 1994.
